ANNUAL K. O. P. MEETING.—The Owensville Lodge No. 87, K. O. P., had their annual banquet at the lodge room Friday night, Feb. 18, the anniversary of the founding of the order.

WEDDING REHEARSAL.—The wedding of Dr. Scott Goodpaster and Miss Catherine Rice at the Christian Church Wednesday night was the important social event of the week. A rehearsal was held Tuesday night.

THOS. POWER HAD LEG BROKEN.—Thos. Power, who is building a residence at Reynoldsville, while nailing on ceiling one day last week fell off of the scaffold and broke his leg between the ankle and knee.

BIG MORTGAGE.—Leslie Shroun is busy now recording a mortgage of $30,000, given by the C. & O. Railway Co. to the U. S. Mortgage and Trust Co. It contains 91 octavo pages of printed matter.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment given at the High School building Friday night by the pupils of the primary grades was well attended and pleased the audience very much. The proceeds amounted to something over $29 gross.

CINCINNATI COURT.—The grand jury reported fifty-one indictments, all for misdemeanors, and adjourned Saturday morning.

Wm. Barber's attorneys applied for a new trial, but were denied it. The case is going to be taken to the Court of Appeals.

John Flancery was convicted of shooting and killing Jas. Perry near Midland City some years ago by the reckless discharge of a pistol and was sentenced to two in the penitentiary.

The damage suit for $3,300 for the loss of an eye by James (Jack) Thompson, of color, against the city of Owensville resulted in the court sustaining the demurrer to the suit by the city's counsel. In other words, it was ruled that Thompson had no cause for action. The case will be taken to the Court of Appeals by counsel for Thompson.

Nothing else of particular interest was done in Court's session.

Court adjourned for the term Saturday.

SIX O'CLOCK DINNER.—Mrs. A. N. Crooks entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday all of those who were to participate in the ceremony at the wedding of Dr. Scott Goodpaster and Miss Catherine Rice.

The dinner was served on individual tables, the color scheme being white and yellow throughout, white candles with yellow shades, heart-shaped cakes of white and yellow, white and yellow mints, etc., with many centerpieces and doliies, and a profusion of silverware and cut glass.

At each table were heart-shaped hand-painted place cards of a bridal couple in a carriage drawn by cupids. The chair of the bride-to-be was adorned with ropes of Southern smilax and white lilies.

The guests were Miss Catherine Rice and Dr. Scott Goodpaster, Misses Wm. E. Robertson (of Cincinnati), Minerva Ricketts (of Sherburne), Mira Crooks, Lodema Wood, Lillian Wood (of Mt. Sterling), and Emily Lacy; Messrs. Glenn Perry, Sherman Goodpaster, Holman Rice, Alex Goodpaster, Wallace Goodpaster, Henry Hopkin, Conner Ewing (of this town), Dr. McKinley (of Mt. Sterling), Clark Patterson, Jo Conner, Walter Crooks (of Mt. Sterling).

FLAT CRICK STORE ROBBER.—The general manager of a flat crick belonging to the Hamilton Farm Co. and managed by Tony Quinn at the crossing of Flat Creek by the Owensville and Mt. Sterling turnpike was broken into Friday night. Considerable of the goods were missing next morning. One of the robbers left his soiled undershirt. The same night Henry Orme had a horse stolen, it is supposed by the same robbers.

The Mt. Sterling bloodhounds were secured, but they could find no trail. It was supposed the robbers went away on horseback or in a vehicle.

CARMICHAEL-CARTER.—Roscoe Carmichael, son of T. D. Carmichael, living on W. I. Cynthiana, and Miss Olie Carter, daughter of George Carter and wife, of the eastern suburbs of Owensville, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 10. The bride and groom left next morning for the bridegroom's home in Bourbon county.

The bride is a pretty and very attractive young lady. Mr. Carmichael is unknown to us.

A good rafting tide is reported in Licking river.

LECTURE COURSE.—Owensville, Ky., Hon. George D. Alden, Lecturer, is the next entertainer of our Lecture Course, and will lecture at the City School Chapel Thursday night, February 25. Judge Alden's lectures are not mere academic discussions, for he touches living, vital topics in a manner which compels attention. In several of the large cities in which he has spoken the daily papers have devoted from one to two columns to a review of his lectures, a very remarkable and unusual tribute to the ordinary layman orator, and perhaps the best possible indication that Judge Alden says "things worth while." Judge Alden will amuse, entertain, interest, lead, inspire, and, best of all, will leave something for thought. Judge Alden is worth the price of the whole course.

Remember the committee and School Library fund lose if you do not support the course, not the lecturer. We solicit your hearty co-operation. Come and enjoy an intellectual treat.

MANAGEMENT. 32-2.

CANDID.—A summer visitor who was trying a horse, the property of a New Hampshire farmer, with a view to buying him, noted that, after driving a few miles, the animal pulled very hard, requiring a firm hand and constant watching. "Do you think this is just the horse for a lady to drive?" he inquired rather doubtfully.

"Well," answered the owner, with an air of great candor, "I must say I shouldn't really want to be the husband of the woman who could drive that horse."—Christian Register.

WHAT RUDOLPH LEARNED.—Last Sunday Rudolph made his debut as a Sunday school scholar. Everybody about the house was interested in the event, and for several days preceding the Sabbath various members of the family had taken pains to coach him for the ordeal. They had taught him the golden text and the story, the lesson, and finally Rudolph, arrayed in his best suit of clothes and with a brand-new penny in his pocket to be dropped into the contribution box, was entered into the path which all little boys are supposed to follow.

When he came home his relations and friends were anxious to hear the report of his experience.

"Well, Rudie," said his mother, "did you have nice time?"

"Yes, ma'am," said Rudolph. "I told you the text?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"And did you remember the lesson?"

"Yes, ma'am. I said it all off by heart."

"And did you put your penny in the basket?"

"Yes, ma'am."

Rudolph's mother grabbed him up and hugged him ecstatically.

"Oh, you little precious! Your teacher has been proud of you. I know she just loved you. She asked something to you, didn't she?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"I know she would. Come, Rudie, darling, tell mother what the teacher said to mother's little boy."

"She said for me to bring two pennies next Sunday," was the astounding reply.

AMERICAN WOMEN FREE.—A French woman, thinking she sees the American woman in true perspective, and it is interesting, before, to hear what she has to say. She considers that the American woman has triumphed in a special manner here because, in a new country, where brute force is the only rule, men saw the necessity of protecting and respecting something, and that to the American woman.

"It might have been supposed," she remarks, "that in the land of the 'struggle for the right,' the woman would have been entering the arena and measuring herself against the men, but the Americans preferred to let her do as she liked and become independent if she desired."

The women of America take pride in being independent, even if they are married, and as marriage is easy and can be entered into with the slightest formalities, men of men control the business in the most decided manner.

On the other hand divorce is almost as easy, and therefore a state of things has come about that is astonishing to a French woman. As the French institution of the 'dot' does not obtain, and the assets of the parents is not necessary, the difficulties which surround marriages in France are non-existent to an even greater degree than they are in England, and the girl who can earn her own living is independent of a husband, while her husband takes one or not."

LA FOLLETTE WEPT.—La Follette had been a member of the dignified body of the Senate for more than two years when he rose last spring to deliver his famous speech against the currency bill, the speech in which he charged that a clique of less than a score of men controlled the business of the whole nation. Just before he took the floor one of the radicals who have come into the Senate since he first appeared there went to him, with outstretched hand, said simply: "We are expecting great things from you today."

Instantly tears filled La Follette's eyes and his hand shook so that he could hardly grasp the hand of his friend. It was with difficulty that he controlled his voice enough to reply: "I know what that means. You are the first man that has spoken to me like that since I have been here," he said.

Two years in the Senate he had been, and not a colleague had given him a decent word—L. A. Davis in Hampton's Magazine.

NEEDN'T BE IN A HURRY.—An old Kansas citizen, who had been heckled all his life, was about to die. His wife thought he was dying and offered him the consolation she could and said: "John, you are about to go, but I shall follow you."

"I suppose so, Manda," said the old man feebly, "but so far as I am concerned you need not be in any hurried hurry about it."

CLOCK HID FACE.—"You are the only girl I ever loved!" he cried.

"Where have I heard that before?" murmured the girl.

"Oh! but I mean it."

"So did all the others."

"You admit there have been others, then?"

"Of course. I am over seven."

"I would die for you."

"But I don't care for dead ones."

"Please don't be frivolous. I was never more in earnest in my life. I would go through fire and water for you."

"With rubber boots and a hand grenade, I suppose."

"Can't you be serious? I love you."

"Do you realize the sacrifice?"

"No sacrifice would be too great for me to make if it would result in winning you."

"Think of the freedom you would have to give up."

"Freedom? Without you it is worthless slavery."

"Your evenings at the club, your little poker parties, your midnight suppers, your comings and goings with no one to question you."

"You are a thousand times more to me than everything else."

"She was nerving herself for the great final test."

"How about the coffee you mother used to make?" she faltered.

"It was bum," he said.

A wild, glad cry escaped her lips.

"Reginald!"

"And the hall clock felt so embarrassed that it could have hidden its face in its hands."

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE

What is Going on in Different Sections of Kentucky.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Pardons Asked For.

Applications for pardons of John L. Powers, ex-governor of State Charles Finley and ex-Gov. W. S. Taylor were made here by Caleb Powers and Dr. E. W. Finley. These men are fugitives from justice for complicity in the murder of Gov. George B. Slaughter.

Governor Names Delegates.

Gov. Wilson named as delegates from Kentucky to the Alaska-Yukon Pacific exposition, at Seattle, Wash. Edward M. Plummer, of Louisville; R. M. Staley, of Frankfort; W. R. Lyon, of Horse Cave; J. R. Lemon, of Mayfield, and B. B. Ross, of Shelbyville.

Business Men Attend Resolutions.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Frankfort Business club under President-elect Taft to incorporate in his call for the special session of congress competent legislation by the passage of a liberal rivers and harbor bill.

Deport Attached.

The depot and tracks of the L. & N. Railroad Co. in this city between Main and High streets on Broadway, were seized by Sheriff Hight to satisfy a judgment of $5,000 in favor of Justice Crutcher. Sheriff Hight said that unless the company takes a supersedeas proceeding or pays the judgment he will at once go down to the depot, take possession of it, sell the tracks and run the trains until the judgment is satisfied. The depot is used by the L. & N. Railroad Co. and the Kentucky State Railroad, the Frankfort, Cincinnati and Kentucky, and the L. & N. railroad, belonging to the latter company.

Newspaper Men Dined by Governor.

Gov. and Mrs. Wilson entertained the newspaper men and correspondents for newspapers with a dinner at the State Hotel. These guests included: John W. Warren, a niece of the governor; F. Walton, editor of the Kentucky State Journal; A. R. Dumm, of the Frankfort News and Courier-Journal; W. B. Bales, of the Louisville Herald; and J. M. Moore, of the Louisville Herald.

Awarded $2,000 by Court of Appeals.

The appellate court awarded to Bruce, of Louisville, judgment for $2,000 for his services as administrator of the estate of the late Samuel H. Harkins. The estate was valued at about $75,000, and there was a number of heirs and considerable litigation.

Examination of the Books.

The examination of the books of the Franklin county was ordered by the fiscal court. It appointed a committee of five citizens of the county, left the book looking over and coming to an expert account to examine the books and report thereon.

Judge O'Neil Gives Opinion.

Regarding the judgment of the Louisville circuit court in the case of the Commonwealth vs. A. Giffis, the judge gave the opinion that the writ of habeas corpus was granted by the Commonwealth vs. A. Giffis, holds that an exact description of property must be given when it is filed for taxation.

Forced To Suspend Payments.

The Louisville Fire Insurance Co. was forced to suspend payments on general warrants because of the lack of cash. The company, which is now paying $25,000 to the county school teachers and $70,000 to the county poor, will have a balance of $14,500.

Insurance License Revoked.

Insurance Commissioner Bell received a telegram from the insurance company of Pennsylvania stating that the Guardian Fire Insurance Co. of Pittsburgh had gone into the hands of the creditors, and that the license of the company was revoked.

Circuit Court Decision Reversed.

The appellate court handed down three opinions reversing the judgments of the Campbell circuit court in which Benner and George Ehrlich were fined $500 each in each case for conducting a poolroom. A new trial is ordered on the ground that the lower court erred.

Campbell Circuit Court Reversed.

Appellate court reversed Campbell circuit court in a case of the L. & N. Railroad Co. against the State, reversing with instructions to award a new trial. On the first trial the appellate court awarded $1,500 for injuries sustained.

Prison Commission.

Attending the Prison Commission, Wilson is calling for a complete examination of the penitentiary and reform school of this state, the board of prison commission asked for a thorough examination of the institutions.

Return of Appeals by Judge Hobson.

The return of appeals by Judge Hobson, reversed the Campbell circuit court in the case of W. L. Glazier against the city of Newport, holding that the ordinance increasing the number of members of the board of aldermen to eight is not valid.
